Application Assurance Solution - New Application Certification

This special event-driven solution is designed to allow companies to eliminate the uncertainty involved when introducing new applications into production. No matter how thoroughly tested an application may be, there is still the uncertainty of knowing what the impact will be to performance once in production and the mix of other applications that are competing for the same resources. This package includes a powerful combination of a one-year software license of BEZPlus™, BEZ's predictive performance solutions, jump start training and expert consulting on predicting application performance.

Minimize Uncertainty and Create Realistic Performance Expectations

Implementing a new application brings many challenges. Will it scale and perform as expected? What is the best architecture, and what are the best hardware, software and DBMS configurations for this application? How will it take advantage of parallel processing? How will the implementation of the new application affect the performance of existing production applications? If the application does not perform as planned, what can be done to improve performance?

Leverage the Industry Experts

BEZ Systems offers the Application Assurance Solution so you can draw on industry experts to guide you through the process of proactively managing critical performance issues. An experienced BEZ performance consultant with in-depth knowledge of Teradata application sizing will provide instruction on how to use the BEZ software to certify the performance of new applications and existing critical applications and enable you to continue to provide the highest level of service to your business.
